Vice President for University Advancement and Executive Director of Foundation Search

About the University

Fort Valley State University was founded in 1895. The University is Georgia's only 1890 Land-Grant Institution, providing extensive research, academic programs, and cooperative services to fulfill those responsibilities.

Located in central Georgia, Fort Valley State University provides an educational experience of exceptional quality. The University's mission and educational goals are realized through comprehensive program offerings in each of the three colleges.

The University's 2,679 students represent 130 of Georgia's 159 counties, 21 states, and 7 countries. Ninety-six percent of the student body is African American. Nearly half of the students live on campus and 80 percent attend full-time.

The diverse faculty, with 153 full-time members, provides a supportive, yet challenging learning environment that encourages innovation and inspires lifelong learning and the realization of aspirations.

Students benefit from strong mentoring by accessible professors. The close-knit campus community encourages personal and academic growth and the establishment of lifelong ties that extend well beyond graduation.

The University offers undergraduate and graduate programs in more than 39 fields at its Fort Valley Campus and Warner Robins Center, which is designed for graduate and non-traditional students. Four undergraduate programs – Criminal Justice, English, Political Science, and Psychology – and one graduate program – Master of Science in Rehabilitation Counseling and Case Management – are offered online.

Fort Valley State's Cooperative Developmental Energy Program (CDEP), which prepares students for energy-industry careers in science and geology, is the only one of its kind in the nation. The program partners with major companies in the oil and energy industry. The University has the only certified Veterinary Technology program in the state.

Biology is the most popular major at Fort Valley State. The University's acclaimed Biology department prepares and sends more African American students to medical and dental schools than any other state school in Georgia.

County extension agents and program assistants at Fort Valley State University work personally with residents in nearly 35 counties throughout middle, east, and south Georgia. The Pettigrew Conference Center hosts more than 500 classes, seminars, and events for approximately 51,000 patrons each year.

Students have many opportunities for extracurricular involvement at the University, including the marching band, concert choir, and cheerleading. There are more than 60 clubs, sororities, fraternities, and social organizations on campus.

FVSU is a member of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. The University's varsity athletics include men's and women's basketball, cross country, tennis, and track and field; women's softball and volleyball; and men's football.
